ABSTRACT

The present invention provides novel antipsychotic therapies and compositions useful therein and provides methods for identifying new candidate

5   molecules for the treatment of psychosis based on the proportional binding affinities for α_2 adrenergic and D_2 dopamine receptors.

ABSTRACT